The Purpose of the J-1 Visa Program

The purpose of the J-1 Training/Internship Program is to provide international participants with opportunities for professional development, insight into American know-how in the field of training/internship, and a greater understanding of American society and culture. J-1 Trainees/Interns are expected to share the cross-cultural and professional knowledge they have gained in the U.S. upon return to their home country at the end of the training/internship program. The J-1 Program is also intended to allow Americans to learn about the culture and expertise of the participant's home country.

Please note: Intent to use the J-1 Program to immigrate into the U.S. and/or to fill the position of a regular staff member is prohibited.

Applying for the J-1 Visa and Making Travel Plans

1) Submit the DS-2019 Form along with your other application materials to the U.S. Embassy or Consulate <https://www.usembassy.gov/> with jurisdiction over your place of permanent residence.

2) We strongly suggest you keep your travel plans flexible while your visa application is being processed (e.g. by choosing a flight that allows you to change dates or obtain a refund in case of trip cancellation). Both AZEEMI'S PARTNER and the U.S. embassy or consulate provide no guarantee that the J-1 Visa will be issued to you, and the processing time may take a few weeks or more in some countries. If your visa application should take longer than expected or be rejected, it will save you time and money if you have not finalized your travel arrangements.

3) Once you obtain your J-1 Visa, you may then travel to the U.S. to begin your training/internship! AZEEMI 'S PARTNER will be available to respond to any questions, concerns, or problems you may have in connection with your program.

Bringing your Spouse or Children to the U.S. on the J-2 Visa

Your spouse and/or children should be able to obtain the J-2 Visa to accompany you to the U.S. or join you later. Each dependent (spouse and/or unmarried child under the age of 21) wishing to enter the U.S. together with you must apply for AZEEMI 'S sponsorship on the J-2 Visa... You must pay a $4400 U.S. dollar fee for the first dependent and $250 U.S. dollar fee for each additional dependent to AZEEMI 'S PARTNER at the same time you are submitting to AZEEMI 'S PARTNER your application for AZEEMI 'S sponsorship on the J-1 Visa. If a dependent wishes to join you in the U.S. later, they need to apply for AZEEMI 'S sponsorship separately and pay AZEEMI 'S PARTNER an application fee of $400 U.S. dollars for the first dependent and $250 U.S. dollars for each additional dependent. Please contact us about discounts for families with small children.

AZEEMI 'S sponsored dependents on the J-2 Visa may not work in the U.S. on J-2 status. If employment is desired, the appropriate work authorization will be required! Therefore, you and your dependents must bring sufficient funds to cover all living expenses in the U.S., pay for round-trip air travel, and purchase adequate health insurance, both for yourself and your spouse and/or children. Please note that securing sponsorship for a J-1 or J-2 Visa does not guarantee that you or your dependents will actually be granted the J-1 or J-2 Visa by a U.S. embassy or consulate. – Important

The Two-Year Foreign Residence Requirement

Holders of a J Visa may be subject to the two-year foreign residence requirement of Section 212(e) of the Immigration and Nationality Act for reasons including but not limited to one or more of the following:

- They receive funding from the United States Government, their own government, or an international organization in connection with their participation in the Exchange Visitor Program;
- The education, training/internship, or skill they are pursuing in the U.S. appears on the Exchange Visitor Skills List <https://travel.state.gov/content/travel/en/us-visas/study/exchange/waiver-of-the-exchange-visitor/exchange-visitor-skills-list.html> for their country; or

- They acquire J-1 status for the purpose of receiving graduate medical education or training

A person subject to the two-year foreign residence requirement may not be eligible to apply for other visa categories. If you are subject to the two-year foreign residency requirement, you may apply for a non-immigrant visa at a U.S. consulate in your home country or in a third country. You must check with the appropriate government or legal authorities for current and accurate information.

Exchange visitors who are subject to, but do not wish to comply with, the two-year home country residence requirement, may be able to apply for a waiver of that requirement under any one of the five eligible grounds provided by the United States immigration law. You must check with the appropriate government or legal authorities for current and accurate information.

For more information about the two-year foreign residency requirement and applications for waivers, please visit the following links of the United States Information Agency:

Traveling Outside the U.S.

If you plan to take a trip outside the U.S. during your J-1 Training/Internship program, you first need to secure permission for the trip from your Host Organization and obtain a travel permission signature from AZEEMI 'S PARTNER's Responsible Officer or Alternate Responsible Officer on your DS-2019 Form. You will not be able to return to the U.S. on the J-1 Visa without this signature, which certifies that you are in good standing on the J-1 Program.

When you send your DS-2019 Form to AZEEMI 'S PARTNER, you must include a pre-paid self-addressed return envelope as well as a brief cover letter in which you provide specific dates, destinations, and brief reasons for your trip.

Please keep in mind that J-1 Trainees/Interns may not travel outside the US for more than 30 days aggregate during their period of training/internship. So plan your travel arrangements accordingly. –

Observing the “Grace Period”

After you have successfully completed your J-1 program, you are permitted by the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to remain in the U.S. for another 30 days. During this 30-day period, which is often referred to as the "Grace Period," you are under the jurisdiction of the USCIS and no longer entitled to train or intern at an organization. The USCIS grants this period to allow you to settle your affairs and to prepare your return to your home country. You may neither continue nor complete your program, nor work during this 30-day period. Although you may travel inside the United States, we recommended that you do not travel beyond the borders of the U.S. as you will not be permitted re-entry on your expired J-1 Training/Internship visa. For your own safety we also suggest you purchase health insurance for this period either independently or through AZEEMI 'S PARTNER at approximately $45 U.S.

Extending your Training/Internship Program

If your original training program lasts less than the maximum duration period (18 months for trainees and 12 months for interns) and if your Host Organization supports your request for additional training/internship, it may be possible to extend your program up to the maximum duration. Whether training or interning, you must currently be "in status" on your J-1 Visa and AZEEMI 'S PARTNER must receive all necessary documentation and application forms at least 30 days prior to the program end date indicated on the Training/Internship Placement Plan ‘TIPP’ and contracts. If an application is received less than 30 days prior to the program end date and AZEEMI 'S PARTNER decides to consider the request, a US$200 nonrefundable late fee must be paid to AZEEMI 'S PARTNER in addition to the extension application fee. Please see AZEEMI 'S PARTNER fee and refund policy for details see further below. To request an extension of training/internship, please contact us, so we can send the necessary application materials to you and your host organization.

If your spouse and/or children are with you in the U.S. on the J-2 Visa, they may request an extension of their stay at the time you submit your application to AZEEMI 'S PARTNER. If the extensions are approved by AZEEMI 'S PARTNER, your dependents may remain with you for the period you are allowed to stay in the U.S.

Travel outside the U.S. is restricted during your program extension, unless you obtain a new J-1 Visa that is valid for the appropriate dates and duration. You must contact the United States Citizenship and Immigration Services (USCIS) to check whether your travel plans comply with current laws, and regulations.

Please note that there is never a guarantee that AZEEMI S PARTNER will accept any application for training/internship extension. If AZEEMI 'S PARTNER denies an application, the denial is final and AZEEMI 'S PARTNER is not required to provide explanations.

We strongly suggest you and your prospective U.S. host organization make a realistic estimate of how much time will be necessary to complete all aspects of the training/internship program in advance of submitting the initial program proposal to AZEEMI'S PARTNER. – Important J-1 Training/Internship Program Information – Page 10 of 15
